Spanish Online

Our busy internet surfer, Caroline, has been looking for online courses for you to try. Many are free, at least to start with. Some are little more than collections of other websites. Some require you to register, and may invite you to purchase further lessons after you have done a few. Others are funded by advertising which can be annoying. Yet others such as RosettaStone are upfront about the highish costs but have a good reputation. We haven't had time to explore all these links thoroughly but if PHS members wish to review any of them please email your comments to the language coordinator.

Private Tutors

The Portsmouth Hispanic Society cannot recommend any private tutors on this website. However the language coordinator does keep a list of a few private tutors in the area, though this may not be up to date.

We recommend that if you require a private tutor you search the internet for tutor agencies or private individuals offering tuition.

Similarly if you are a tutor seeking work, please be aware that the Society does not employ tutors. All tutors are volunteer members of the Society. We recommend that you get in touch with a tutor agency.
